THE FIGHTING AT CHEMULPO.

Through the courtesy of Mrs. Moore we are allowed to give our readers the benefit of the following graphic account of the fighting at Chemulpo, as seen and reported by her husband, Bishop Moore, for whose safety it will be remembered, grave fears were entertained at the outset of the war.

I left Shanghai early Saturday morning on the 6th February, in the Sungari, one of the Russian line plying between that city and Port Arthur. War was imminent. Disquieting rumours were flying. Minister Allen, of Corea, had directed our mission, to cable not to sail. But this increased my desire to go, especially as I had a conference to hold in Seoul this month, and the longer I delayed the poorer the chances of getting over. Brigadier-General Henry T. Allen, commander of our native scouts and constabulary in the Philippines, was the only other passenger—a most informing, capable and delightful gentleman, a typical high-minded Kentuckian. As he spoke Russian we managed to get on very well with the Russian officers and crew. They were alert and uneasy; the young Captain not sleeping a wink the last night out. But we saw nothing until entering Chemulpo harbour, where we cast anchor Monday morning, 8th February, at 8.30, near two fine Russian cruisers, the Varyag and Korieta.

Little did we think that the next day all these would be at the bottom of the sea. Not a Japanese war-ship was in the harbour for in sight. Our Vicksburg, the British Talbot, the French Pascua, and an Italian and a Korean cruiser were anchored not far away. Nothing unusual occurred until about 4 p.m., when a long line of Japanese cruisers, torpedo-boats, and three transports, twelve in all, steamed in and anchored. It was dark before the troops began to disembark—some 3,000 hardy-looking fellows, equipped for active service. Chemulpo has a large Japanese population, which turned out en masse to welcome the soldiery, who by previous arrangement were quartered in the Japanese houses. A noble address was sent out by the Japanese authorities, calling upon all Japanese to conduct themselves with the utmost propriety towards Koreans and all foreigners, since Japan in this struggle is on trial before the civilised world. The soldiers landed, the fleet withdrew some six miles, beyond an island, and formed across the narrow channel by which alone heavy-draft ships can pass in or out. There were six ships in line and eight torpedo-boats. Besides these a second line was removed.

Tuesday, the 9th, was a lovely day, albeit the sea-view was hazy. Like a shock ran through the city the report that the Japanese Consul had notified the Russians that, if they did not sail out by noon, they would be attacked in the harbour at 4 p.m. Soon after the following official order was made public:—
"Japanese Consul,
Chemulpo, 9th February, 1904.
SIR,—I have the honour to notify that Rear-Admiral S. Uriu, commanding a squadron of the Imperial Japanese navy, who is at present in Chemulpo roadstead with the force under his command, requests me to notify you that as hostilities exist between the government of Japan and the government of Russia, he shall be obliged to attack the men-of-war of Russia stationed at present in the port of Chemulpo with the force under his command, in case of the refusal of the Russian senior naval officer present to leave the port of Chemulpo before noon of the 9th of February, 1904.
I have the honour to be, Sir,
Your obedient servant,
(Signed) MOTOSHIRO KATO,
His Imperial Japanese Majesty's Consul."

It was further understood that, in the event of non-compliance, the attack in the harbour would be at four o'clock in the afternoon. The Russians decided to go out, and stripped their ships for action. The sea was strewn with everything wooden, from top mast to sky-light, everything which would splinter. Sand-bags were piled up against and above the sides on deck. Every gun and every torpedo-tube was shotted; and shortly before noon they steamed out, cheered by the other battleships as they passed—
"Into the jaws of Death, Into the mouth of Hell!"

Our mission compound commands a fine view of the harbour and roadstead, and to the left and further seaward a still better view is secured. As the ships disappeared in the haze our hearts stood still with almost agonising suspense. Then came the roar of two shots across their bows. Then, refusing to lay to, they opened their batteries, and were opened upon by the concentrated fire of the Japanese. Fifteen minutes, we thought would suffice to end the unequal combat; but earth and sea shook under the awful thunder of the guns thirty minutes, forty minutes, fifty-two minutes; and unable to break through, scorning to surrender, the Russians swung round and steamed back to their anchorage, with their flags still flying. Sure of their prey, and presumably unwilling to fight unnecessarily in the harbour, the Japanese did not pursue but resumed their station in the roadstead, completely blocking the only channel. The four-funnelled, Cramp-built cruiser was evidently badly wounded and listed to port. The Korieta, the smaller of the two, was apparently uninjured. But we hastened to row out in a sampan to inspect for ourselves. We saw no scars or wounds on the Korieta, though the sailors were putting fresh paint on her hull here and there, as if to conceal scars, and the officer directing had his head bandaged. General Allen asked in Russian how they fared. The commander replied that they had no chance, and that at four the ship would go up. But the Varyag was evidently sinking. She was mortally wounded amidships, and had a huge rent in her upper works. Two of her funnels were riddled and her bridge a mass of twisted iron.

A lieutenant was on the bridge signalling orders to the Korieta when the shell exploded. He was blown into fragments and overboard—all but his right arm and hand, which remained grasping the flag.

The boats of the other warship were removing her men to the security of her own decks. The wounded were being taken on board the French and English ships—a hundred, more dead than alive. It was pathetic the tenderness and veneration with which they handed down the Tsar's portrait. Our ship alone gave no sanctuary, though her life-boats helped remove the men.

We hailed the First Officer of the Sungari the ship we landed from the day before. He indicated that all was lost, and shortly after we saw the men dash below as if to scuttle her. Now the men are hastening to leave the Korieta. We are within a few yards of her last two boats as they put off. It is twenty minutes to four, and we recall her Captain's words and hasten our rowers. There is an island, surrounded by a revolving light, six hundred yards away. We land climb to the summit. The hands of the watch denote four. Instantly a terrific explosion in the stern, and almost simultaneously another forward, sent the Korieta to its doom—two malignant volumes of smoke and debris leaped writhing and twisting upward, clinching an struggling as though two monsters in mortal combat. And as their black bodies pulled apart a moment, the sinking sun, fearful with filmy haze, shone through. And list through the blackness of darkness and the rain of falling fragments of their ruined ship came stately, and solemn, and grand from the French ship, where they had asylum, her crew's majestic chant of the Russian national hymn, at once their new oath of allegiance to the White Star and their requiem over their lost ship.

The smoke-stack, her gleaming prow, and portions of her steel frame show where the Korieta met her fate.

Now a fierce fire rages in the bunkers of the Varyag; more and more she lists to port. She has outlived the sun, but at six o'clock, with one great shudder, like a huge leviathan, she turns on her side and dies.

Only the Sungari remains, so recently our home. She sinks all too slowly. A boat puts off to her from the French cruiser, and soon her beautiful upper works are a roaring furnace of flame. All night she burns and glows; and dies with the morning light.—V. C. D. News

WHAT IT WILL DO.

A woman buys a sewing machine for what it will do; not as an article of furniture. A man carries a watch to tell him the time; not as an investment of surplus capital. The same principle when one is ill. We want the medicine or the treatment which will relieve and cure. The friend in need must be a friend indeed—something, or somebody, with a reputation, with a good record, with a history that justifies our confidence. There should be no guesswork in treating disease. People have the right to know what a medicine is, and what it will do, before they take it. It must have behind it an open record of benefit to others for the same diseases, a series of cures that proves its merit and inspires confidence. It is because it has such a record that WAMPOL'S PREPARATION is bought and used without hesitation or doubt. Its Good Name is the solid basis for the faith the people have in it; and a good name has to be earned by good deeds. For the purposes for which it is recommended it is honest, true and practical. It does what you have a right to expect it to do. It is palatable as honey and contains all the nutritive and curative properties of Pure Cod Liver Oil, combined with the Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites and the Extracts of Malt and Wild Cherry. In Scrofula, Anemia, Nervous and General Debility, Influenza, Blood Impurities and Wasting Complaints, it is to be thoroughly relied upon. Dr. J. L. Carrick says: "I have had remarkable success with it in the treatment of Consumption, Chronic Bronchitis, Catarrh and Scrofulous Affections. It is of special value in nervous prostration and depraved nutrition; it stimulates the appetite and the digestion, promotes assimilation, and enters directly into the circulation with the food. I consider it a marvelous success in medicine." Every dose effective. "You cannot be disappointed in it." Sold by chemists.

THE SOUL OF A NATION.

Such Europeans as possess an intimate knowledge of the soul of the Japanese people, a just appreciation of which is to be gained only by a careful study of their history and characteristics, or by a prolonged residence in their country, must be sadly disappointed at the flagrant inaccuracies contained in the descriptions supplied to Western journals by special representatives, sent out to chronicle the phases of the present struggle. Of the ability of these correspondents there can be no doubt; indeed, several of them are veterans of the Press, having rubbed shoulders with half the races of the earth, and assisted at most of the world's dramas that have occurred during the past quarter of a century. Yet, from their letters published in the home papers, it is evident that few, probably none of them, have succeeded in forming a just appreciation of the character of the nation they are writing about.
Neither is there any cause for wonder at this result; that is, to those who have any real experience of the inmost workings of the soul of the Japanese people. It is as absurd to try and form an opinion of their national character from the conduct of the people in Nagasaki, Yokohama, Tokio or any of the cosmopolitan centres, as it would be to gauge the national spirit of the British nation by the words and actions of Sunday Hyde Park orators and their listeners.

To appreciate the character of any race a lengthy and careful study is required, and with regard to the Japanese, the last forty years of their history has made such a work a particularly difficult task, to such as arrive amongst them with little or no previous knowledge of their nationalism. To the casual observer it would seem that the Japanese, besides adopting all our modern appliances and methods in war or commerce, have also accepted our Western ideas in education, morals and social customs. Consequently, correspondents are judging them according to our own standards, and are judging them wrongly.

The Japanese of to-day are, apart from the skill they have acquired in the use of our weapons in warfare, our methods in commerce, and a veneer of Western civilization to enable them to transact business with the European, the same brave and dignified race that existed under the Shoguns. Though the Samurai of to-day wears a frock-coat, his heart is as brave and his honour as dear to him as were those of his ancestor, who carried two swords in his obi. No more positive proofs of this eternal flame of the race can be found than in the description of incidents which have occurred during the recent combats before Port Arthur.
Writing of the first attack on this stronghold and the action at Chemulpo, a Tokio journal states:—With the exception of H.I.H. Prince Arisugawa, who is an adviser to the Crown Prince and a member of the Naval Council, all the Imperial Princes are now serving with the fleet, and three of them have taken an active part in the recent fighting. H.I.H.
Prince Higashifushimi is in command of the Chitose, and the Princes Kacho and Yamashima are lieutenants on the Mikasa and Yakumo, respectively. All of these princes distinguished themselves by their gay daring and eagerness to be in the most dangerous post during the combats at Port Arthur and Chemulpo. That the spirit of old-time valour and stoicism is common to all ranks is evident from the two following incidents:— During the first attack on Port Arthur a sailor on the Hatsuse had his hand cut off by the fragment of a bursting shell. Picking up the severed member he went up to the ship's surgeon, who was busy tending to the other wounded, and asked that officer:—

"Doctor, can you not do something to this for-me, for I want to fight again?" When Admiral Togo asked the fleet for volunteers to man the five tramp steamers, destined to block the entrance of Port Arthur, more than 2000 applications were received. The direction of the flotilla was entrusted to Captain Arima, flag-officer of the Commander-in-chief and seventy-six others were chosen. A petty officer, whose request to be one of the party had not been acceded to, renewed his application and wrote a petition in his own blood to Captain Arima and he was accepted as one of the crew. Grim courage of this sort has always been a trait of our own race, and it will not fail to find favour with our people, and such incidents tend to prove that, though he fights with modern weapons, the Japanese warrior is the same fearless hero that, a century ago, wielded in the service of his over-lord, the keen two-handed sword. A nation that can still conserve intact its race characteristics after adopting the practical benefits of our civilization is a strong nation indeed. Let us trust that, should we have to struggle for our existence as a nation, we shall still have our Shaws and Burnabys; for this war is proving conclusively that though modern weapons have changed past tactics, success mainly depends on the daring and selfabnegation of the combatant.

preference shares for the same period.

The following is the return of visitors to the City Hall Library and Museum for the week ending 13th March, 1904:—

MR. C. W. Clarke, our local European photographer, has forwarded us six very interesting views, taken at Chemulpo, during and after the recent naval combat there. Snap shots of the unfortunate Varyag before and after the engagement, and also of the blowing-up of the Korietz are among these pictures which will be of immense value to collectors of souvenirs of the present struggle.

THE Mandjour, it seems, is to be disarmed at last, and the Armstrong-built Chinese mosquito gun-boat Taitien, under instructions of Viceroy Wei of Nanking, is to go alongside the Mandjour within the next day or so (says the N. C. D. News of 12th inst.) and receive the breechlocks of the latter's big guns, her rifles, and other munitions of war, etc. This will satisfy the Japanese Government who, it is stated, place no restrictions as to the number of the crew who are to remain on board the Mandjour during the continuation of the present war so long as all her offensive weapons as well as certain portions of her propelling machinery are taken out of her.

THE str. Changon, which was in collision with the P. & O. S. Ballaarat off Pheasant Point, Shan-hai, on the 5th inst. was towed up river on the 10th inst. and was lying at Old Dock Wharf during the day. To enable her to be towed up a large canvas mat was passed right underneath the vessel from port side to starboard. This prevented a full view of the damage below the waterline. The reports of the damage to the Changon have not been at all exaggerated; rather the contrary. From where the bow of the Ballaarat struck, amidships starboard, right away to the stern the Changon's side has been shaved clean away, leaving bunkers, engine room, galleys, etc., quite exposed to view. A photograph of the vessel presents a picture very similar to the sectional pictures of steamers sometimes exhibited in shipping offices. The Changon was docked at the Old Dock—N. C. D. News.

THE CHINESE CURRENCY QUESTION.

Professor Jeremiah W. Jenks, Commissioner on International Exchange of the United States, was received in Audience at Peking on the 23rd ult. at the request of President Roosevelt.
His Majesty the Emperor allowed considerable interest in the scheme, and he said that it was his earnest desire that China should secure good, stable uniform currency, and wished the Professor success in the work. A brief plan of the proposed system is as follows:—

In the first place the Chinese Government is to take the necessary steps, provided such a course meet with the approval of a majority of the Indemnity Powers, to establish a general monetary system of silver coins, but with a definite gold value, China to employ foreign assistance and advice in the management and operation of the said system. China is to appoint a foreign Controller of the Currency, who shall have general charge of the system, and associates of the Mint or of such other work as the Controller may prescribe.

The duties of the Controller of the Currency will be to supervise the workings of the system, and to make monthly reports touching the condition of the currency, amounts in circulation, loans, etc. His accounts are to be opened to the inspection of the Powers having indemnity claims against China, provided that the Chinese Government considers such a provision necessary to secure confidence in the system.

The Chinese Government is to adopt a unit of value; said unit to consist of a certain number of grains of gold, and to be worth approximately the gold value of a tael, or a little more than a Mexican dollar, with the free coinage of suitable pieces, multiples of the unit 5, 10, etc., and to demand for a reasonable coinage charge, eventually some to be coined on account of the Government.

China is to coin as rapidly as possible silver coins, with a suitable device, about the size of a Mexican dollar, for general circulation throughout the Empire. These are to be maintained at par with the standard gold unit at a ratio of about 32 to 1. Subsidiary coins, silver, nickel, and copper of suitable weight and value to be provided. These coins, both gold and silver, are to be received in the payment of obligations by the several provinces to the Government. Previous debts, however, to be paid as contracted.

For the maintenance of the parity of the silver coins the Chinese to open credit accounts in London and other leading commercial centres, against which it may draw gold bills at a fixed rate, somewhat above the usual banking rates, viz., if the usual banking rate at London under the system were about 1 of the new coins for 25, the Government might sell it at the rate of 1 to 2 for 25. Such drafts to be made only under the direction of the Controller of the Currency, but to be made on demand for all depositors of the new silver coins in sums of not less than, say, 1000 taels.

In the event where it would be necessary to make loans for the establishment of a general monetary system, with adequate exchange fund, such loans to be secured by sources of revenue sufficient to yield an amount which will provide for the needed interest and sinking funds. Such revenues to be managed in a way satisfactory to the parties interested. Profits from coinage to be kept as a separate fund.
Whenever 500,000 taels worth shall have been accumulated, the sum to be placed in the nature of a gold deposit with the several foreign depositories in proportion to drafts made upon them. This process to be continued until a certain amount shall be in the gold fund on deposit.

For replenishing the gold fund owing to its having been reduced by drafts the Controller to draw silver drafts drawn by the foreign agents of the Treasury in exchange for gold, at rates fixed by the Controller.

Bank notes kept at par with the legal tender currency may be issued by an Imperial Bank, or by other responsible banks under the supervision of the Controller.

The new currency to be introduced into the various provinces as rapidly as practicable, the Controller to make use of the local governments, banks, business houses and such other agencies as may be best suited to the purpose.

Within five years the new system to be introduced at all the Treaty ports, and as far as possible elsewhere, and all customs duties to be collected in the terms of the new currency.
Local taxes to be collected in the new currency as fast as it can be introduced in the provinces, and provision made for keeping the tax account under the new system. The new system to be put into effect when a certain number of the coins, to be decided later, is ready for circulation.

The Controller and representatives of the Powers to be authorized to recommend economic reforms in China.

Professor Jenks will leave shortly via the Peking-Hankow Railway, and overland, for Hankow.—Shanghai Mercury

THE PROCEEDINGS AGAINST THE EDITOR OF THE
"CHINA TIMES."

We extract the following from the China Times of the 5th instant:—
The following subpoena was served on Thursday, 25th February, upon Mr. John Cowan, editor of the China Times, at the office of this journal:—

In His Britannic Majesty's Court at Tientsin, Thursday, the 25th day of February, 1904.

To John Cowan.—
You have this day been charged (on oath) before this Court, for that you the General Manager and Publisher of the China Times by the publication in an article in the issue of the 24th February 1904 of the paragraph beginning with the words "the sole point" down to the word "beasts," have committed an act likely to produce or excite to a breach of the public peace, a pecuniary view of the presence of troops of various nationalities in Tientsin.

Therefore you are commanded, in His Majesty's name, to appear before this Court on Monday the 29th day of February at 10.30 o'clock in the forenoon to answer to the said charge, and to be further dealt with according to the law, in accordance with Section 66 of the China and Japan Order-in-Council of 1865.

L. C. HOPKINS,
Consul-General and Judge.

The passage in question in our issue of the 24th ult. was as follows:—

"The sole point to which it seems necessary to direct attention is the suggestion that the men and women on board the S. S. Wasega were deservedly ill-treated because the men were spies and the women something worse.
No explanation has been given by the Russian authorities of brutal behaviour extended toward these refugees, and the present apology seems scarcely less scandalous than the ill-usage itself. If the men were accused of being spies they should have been tried by a properly constituted court, not knocked about by brutes in uniform, and even if found guilty and imprisoned, a civilised gaoler would have provided that they received food and drink. The barbarism and brutality for which Siberia is notorious throughout the civilised world is illustrated at the first outbreak of war. It stands in grim contrast, as we have pointed out, to the humane treatment accorded by the Japanese to the

THE Beer to drink in the tropics is the Beer made in the tropics—SAN MIGUEL.

Russian survivors at Chemulpo. The unwarranted aspersions on the character of the Japanese women are scarcely worthy of notice.
Port Arthur, it is true, stinks with infamy; so much to the credit of the Russian officers who slept in it. It is not the Japanese who have made it so. There is not a town or colony in Japan or in the Far East that can compare with the fortified ports of Eastern Russia for vice and filth of the worst description. Well may the Times speak of this war of civilisation, if not because it promises to end in the downfall of the Russian Sodom and Gomorrah, Port Arthur and Vladivostok. Among all this garbage of humanity, the Japanese are the race which have kept themselves clean. Yet even the lowest of women may not be denied food and drink by captors who have any instincts above those of beasts."

The section of the Orders-in-Council under which these proceedings were taken reads as follows:—

Order of her Majesty the Queen in Council for the government of her Majesty's subjects in China and Japan. (At the Court at Windsor, the 9th March, 1865.)

Section XIII.—Deportation.
106 (1) When it is shown on oath, to the satisfaction of any of her Majesty's Courts in China or in Japan, that there is reasonable ground to apprehend that any British subject in China or Japan is about to commit a breach of the public peace, or that the acts or conduct of any British subject in China or in Japan are or is likely to produce or excite to a breach of the public peace, the Court, within the jurisdiction whereof he happens to be may cause him to be brought before it, and require him to give security, to the satisfaction of the Court, to keep the peace, or for his future good behaviour, as the case may require.

(2) Where any British subject is convicted, under this Order, of any crime or offence, the Court within the jurisdiction whereof he happens to be may require him to give security to the satisfaction of the Court for his future good behaviour.

In either of the cases, if the person required to give security fails to do so, the Court may order that he be deported from China or Japan to such place as the Court directs.

The defendant appeared as commanded at the Consulate-General on Monday last. The proceedings were held in Chambers. The defendant was ordered to give recognisances.
He declined and declines to do so.

A deportation order was accordingly made on Wednesday.

THE CHINESE INSURANCE
CO., LD.

(IN LIQUIDATION.)

Following is the report for presentation to the shareholders at a general meeting to be held at the office of the Hon. C. P. Chater, Kt., C.M.G., Victoria Buildings, Queen's Road, on Saturday, 26th inst., at 3 p.m.

The liquidator now begs to submit a statement of accounts to 31st December, 1903.

The undersigned was entrusted with the liquidation of this company at a general meeting held on the 21st January, 1892, but it was not until September, 1894, that he felt himself justified to make the first repayment of capital at $7.50 per share. A second return of capital at $2.75 per share was declared in March, 1898; making a total of $10.25 per share.

The company's shareholders to a great extent have been very slow, however, in coming forward to collect the amount due to them. Notwithstanding the greatest efforts made to induce shareholders to come forward, there still remains undivided the amount of $810 as first repayment of capital on 108 shares, and $363 as second repayment of capital on 132 shares.
Owing to the great lapse of time this total of $1,173 should now be disposed of.

In view of the very protracted delay in winding up this company your liquidator considered it right to cease charging the remuneration allowed to him of $300 per annum, since the beginning of 1897, which should meet with the approval of the shareholders.

On making the second repayment of capital in March, 1898, your liquidator calculated that this would absorb as nearly as possible the funds of the company, and the somewhat larger cash balance of $444.62 now in hand is mainly due to a dividend received quite unexpectedly in August, 1900, from the estate of Messrs. Degener & Co., in San Francisco.

The amount in hand, viz.:— Cash balance in current a/c. $ 444.62 repayment of capital..... 810.00 Balance unclaimed on second

Total.....$1,617.62 should now finally be disposed of and the affairs of this company definitely be brought to a close, since after more than 12 years' liquidation your liquidator now intends to leave the East.

THE WAR.

REMOURED ABANDONMENT OF
PORT ARTHUR.

JAPAN'S SCEPTICISM.

YOKOHAMA, 16th March, 1.35 p.m.

The persistent rumour, that has been in circulation for the past three days, that Russia has abandoned Port Arthur, is regarded here with considerable scepticism.

WAR BONDS.

The subscriptions to the Japanese war bonds amounted, up to Sunday last, to Yen 452,225,775, or a little more than four and a half times over-subscribed.

MORE RUSSIAN PRISONERS

HOMEWARD BOUND.

Two hundred Russian prisoners, who formed part of the crews of the merchant steamers captured at the outbreak of hostilities, have left Nagasaki by the French mail steamer Sydney, homeward bound.

The steamer is due to arrive at Hongkong on Sunday, the 20th inst.

This distinguished officer will land at Kobe, from which port he will proceed home by the Canadian Pacific.

CANTON NOTES.

THE SHANG TSOI FESTIVAL.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Canton, March 14th.
Hundreds of boats and launches and thousands of people have been leaving Canton during the past few days for Kun Tsin in the Nam Hoi district. There are some temples at the foot of a hill in that neighborhood and the festival is in connection with these temples.
Shang Tsoi means "fresh vegetable," and the festival consists in eating this fresh vegetable, which, in this instance, is largely
